Upgrading to 3800G

What's Different?

Performance - The 3800g features Adaptus Imaging Technology 5.0. When compared to the 3800LR, the 3800g provides:

- 2X the read range
- 4X the tolerance to hand motion and
- Improved depth of field

Size - The 3800g is 10% smaller and 20% lighter than the 3800LR-12

Features - The 3800g has the following enabling features not found in the 3800LR-12:

- Continuous Illumination Mode
- Centering
- Presentation Mode with Manual Trigger

Connectivity - The 3800GX4 is equipped with USB, PS/2 and TTL232 on board. It does not have HHLC or Wand Emulation.

Default Host Connectivity - The 3800gXX standard host default is KBW USB. The 3800LR / LX is PS/2 Keyboard.

Cables - 3800g utilizes the same cables, with the following exceptions:

- 42206368-01(E) (USB converter cable) does not function with the 3800g
- Cables used for interfaces not contained in the 3800g (HHLC and Wand Emulation) will not function

Accessories - The 3800g uses a unique set of accessories due to its unique form factor. 3800LR-12 accessories will not fit properly.
