

HAND-SCULPTED HARDWOOD

Artisan-carved planks in a rich palette of colors combine the craftsmanship of a bygone era with modern design appeal. From the deeply textured rustic look of Rural Living,[™] to the subtly sculpted elegance of hand-crafted Century Estate,[™] our collections of hand-sculpted floors are equally enchanting in a 19th century farmhouse or a converted urban loft.

A CLOSER LOOK AT CENTURY ESTATE™

Once upon a time, practically every floor was a hardwood floor, hand carved by carpenters and craftsmen. Some of the most beautiful examples of this craftsmanship remain in the country manor homes of Europe and the mansions of the Old South. It is these antique plank floors, sculpted by hand and worn to elegant smoothness by the footsteps of generations, that inspired the Armstrong® Century Estate collection.

Each Century Estate™ floor is a one-of-a-kind work of art. Armstrong has chosen the finest hickory, maple, oak and walnut – all classic species known for their timeless beauty and durability. Each 6" wide plank is hand-sculpted to create the details of centuries-old floors. Authentic details include soft, undulating carving and subtle pillowed edges. The planks are then hand-stained the old-fashioned way, providing a depth of color and luminous patina unmatched by any modern machine. The final result is a selection of 12 stunningly refined floors with timeless beauty and remarkable versatility. Century Estate provides the perfect foundation for traditional or old world design, as well as an ideal unifying element for bridging styles in a modern décor.
