

Listening First™ Headsets

The emphasis on the listening and speaking ELA standards begin with our youngest learners, so it's critical to start them off with headsets that are calibrated for optimizing speech intelligibility. It is essential that young students master reading skills as soon as possible. This is a benchmark skill that will help determine their future academic success. Listening First headsets are sized to fit younger students and have multiple safety features. They are ideal for either individual students or small group activities with MAC and Windows-based computers, Android-based smartphones and tablets, and Google Chromebooks®.

Choose from one of three plug choices, and with or without volume control.
