Got It™ Student Response System

Teachers report that using this student response system overrides the reluctance of even the shyest learner in their classrooms. Increase student engagement at the same time you are increasing student assessments. The anonymity of the responses allows all students to actively participate in class discussions. The Got It Clicker System is an excellent way for teachers to assess content knowledge while energizing their classrooms.

With eight interactive modes and six types of evaluation reports, this wireless student response system solution works with any presentation screen (including the interactive Whiteboard featured on page 46). It is also commonly used with Microsoft®, Word®, Excel®, and PowerPoint® programs. Easily portable from class to class, the expandable Got It system comes with one teacher remote and its own storage case. The system is available as a 24 or 40-piece set. A single set can be used for up to 255 students with additional student remotes.
