Discovery™ Headsets

New ELA standards place even greater importance on listening and speaking skills than in the past. That's why the speech intelligibility of Califone headsets is so important. Schools depend on our audio products to help their students achieve academic success. These heavy-duty headsets are proven workhorses in classrooms, labs, and libraries across the country.

The noise-cancelling microphone on the Discovery is designed for voice recognition software and is why the Discovery headset is so widely used for both language activities and game-based learning. The industry's deepest ear cups also make this one of the most comfortable headsets to wear. The headband's flexible comfort sling more evenly distributes the weight. The innovative phone-style clip enables you to quickly change the cord so the same headset.
